HISTORICAL.

Gleanings Here, There and Everywhere, But Mostly in Oxford County

BY LEONARD B. CHAPMAN.

THE NAME OF YORK.

When the township of Sudbury Canada was surveyed the plotting and numbering of lots along the southern side of the Androscoggin river was somewhat curiously done.

The lot numbering was commenced upon the end of the township joining what is now known as Rumford and Milton Plantation, the numbering of lots running from east to west (nearly), and the ranges from south to north (nearly). A miniature plan appears between pages 27 and 30 of the history of Bethel showing the situation at the commencement of civilized life in the Sudbury Canada township. I think it was copied from a plan of the original survey and numbering deposited at the State House in Boston, Mass. In the Bethel selectmen's office is an old, large, manuscript plan of the grant from not long ago, which has been framed and hung up at the place indicated; to examine carefully the names and lot numbers, replacing the aid of a magnifying glass, step ladder and considerable time, neither of which was at my command when I visited the place of exhibition.

Starting with No. 1, Range 3, we will work along westerly to the western side of lot No. 4 where the course of the Androscoggin river makes a turn upward of forty-five degrees but the water is downward in its passage towards the ocean. Here the westerly side line of lot No. 4 intersects with the easterly end of the last island of the group appearing upon the plan before me represented as containing 100 acres each, though No. 1 appears twice as large as No. 4. Here at the westerly side of lot No. 4 commences lot No. 1 of the "Interval lots" appearing on the plan, long and narrow, each represented as containing forty acres. These numbers continue up to and including No. 13, which lot is much shorter and wider than the other interval lots. After passing five 100 acre lots another string of interval lots are commenced with and including No. 14, and ending with and including No. 22 inclusive, about at the middle of which line of lots appears an island in the Androscoggin river.

It has been stated that plain John York of Portsmouth later known as Col. John York of Bethel, received January 21, 1779, Interval lot No. 13, located as above indicated.

From the Cumberland county registry of deeds appears an important record, an abstract of which reads as follows:
January 15, 1779, consideration $100, Peter Astin of Fryburg to John York of Portsmouth, two Interval lots, No. 11 and No. 12 and Interval lots, No. 9, 8th Range of lots, John York to fulfill the requirements of the General Court in both instances. (Signed)

"Peter Astin."

"Deborah Astin."

This last named lot joined upon the westerly end of the two Interval lots John York had purchased in Sudbury Canada and upon these lots, to female and the other, it appears by the records here that John York had commenced his new home in the wilderness when the Indians from St. Francis regions in Canada made their descent upon and sacked the upper settlement of the Sudbury Canada Plantation, August 2, 1781—less than two years after John York's land purchase, when all who were not captured fled in different directions. The course pursued by John York is not a matter of record nor have I ever heard anything of a traditional character concerning it.

Whatever preparations were made for the reception of the military garrison by the Massachusetts government or the military arrived first in 1781, but a description of the "Fort" erected of "hewn timber" and situated at the foot of Mt. Hill in the upper or Western settlement is a matter of record in fact, but that of the lower settlement is placed upon

GOV. JOHNSON'S TRIP IN MAINE.

Tremendous Crowds Greeted Him All Along The Line.

Gov. Hiram Johnson of California, candidate for Vice President on the Progressive ticket made a whirlwind campaign through the State of Maine last Monday. He travelled by special train in company with about 75 Maine Progressives.

The principal speech of the day was made in City Park, Lewiston, where several thousand people had congregated. Gov. Johnson is a very able and eloquent speaker. He readily impressed one as a man with the courage of his convictions, thoroughly alive to the situation confronting the American people, and sends his message home with an earnestness that commands the respect and admiration of all who hear him. His Lewiston speech was in part as follows:

"We are engaged in an age-long struggle, a struggle that for the first time found expression in a great national party. In days past there has been a gradual formation of that which has now become a national movement, starting first in one state, permeating to another, and then to another, until now all the states have come together in that movement which originally had its origin in one of the states of this union."

"Away out where we reside on the Pacific coast we have had in the past great troubles in our political career. There the great corporations governed, managed, operated, conducted and controlled that government just as if it were a part of its commercial enterprise, and the gentleman, who was the attorney for that corporation, sat in the city of San Francisco, and with a kindliness that we republicans appreciate, he nominated all the candidates upon the republican ticket, and then, with a beneficence, we give him credit for, he nominated all the candidates upon the democratic ticket."

"They were accustomed every election time to fight a tremendous sham battle, in which we were always vanquished, and he always won, and that condition is something of a replica, I think, of what has obtained in the past in your great State. And what, indeed, has been a part of the political system of all the nation."

"Last June we from our state journeyed to Chicago, with a mandate of our people by a 77,000 majority, there to register the mandate of that people. In Chicago we with others who came from states where there have been presidential preference primaries or open primaries there was a decided expression, and a great party was then born in the necessity of the nation, as perhaps no other party had ever done."

"That party registered the will of the majority of its members and a majority of the American people, but when we reached Chicago last June we found a certain individual of arrogant mind upon the platform, there determined to work his will in defiance of the will of the majority of the members, and they persevered in their designs until that convention pretended to nominate a candidate of that party as a candidate of the American people, and when they persevered in that design and consummated their purpose they assassinated that party itself, and they did more, they assassinated the very candidacy of the man they pretended to nominate."

"Since that time he has been a negligible factor in this political contest. It became necessary for those other people, particularly for those from the West, who believed in the right of our people to rule themselves, all as well as the same might be but to rule themselves as they desired, for us who believe in the fundamental principle upon which this government was founded and upon which our party was founded—to form a party that recognized that that absolute right with which no one in any manner could interfere."

"So it was that again last August men and women of broad vision and broad sympathy met for the purpose of forming a party upon the basis of a new ideal, and upon the idea that the chief asset of any nation is its men, its women and its children. Just 100th ANNIVERSARY OF SO. PARIS CHURCH.

Those who went to Garland Chapel last Monday night were delightedly entertained and words of appreciation were heard on every hand, the occasion being the Ladies' Club Benefit by Mrs. Gehring and Miss Weed, and much credit and praise is due them for this very enjoyable evening.

Mr. Upson was introduced as the musical director, and the selections by the world's famous artists on Mrs. Gehring's "Victor" were indeed delightful. To the music lovers it was a great source of pleasure to hear with distinctness such famous artists as Schumann, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Brahms, and others, the greatest tenor in the world.

As an introduction of the first number, March from Aida, Mr. Upson said: "At the opening of the Suez Canal many of the reigning monarchs were invited to Cairo to celebrate the great event."

"Among other festivities a grand opera was written for the occasion by the Italian composer Verdi, (from whose compositions many of the recent Festival numbers were chosen.)"

"It was given with great perfection in Cairo."

"The scene is laid in Egypt, and the heroine is the Aida from whom the opera is named. The Maine prima donna, Emma Eames, has so identified herself with this part as to have won world-wide fame."

"We have chosen for the first number of our program the triumphal march, when, before the stately king, on his throne and the brilliant king, the army passes in review."

One of the famous portraits, after Gutzkow, the great French artist, with Miss Upson as the subject, was the second number on the program, and this was exceedingly charming.

The Italian Street Song was the second number by the "Victor," and one could readily imagine the gay costumes and laughter of the young Italians frolicking down the street of an Italian city by moonlight.

The Courtship Scene between Henry V and Katherine of France, as given by Miss Weed, who is a great favorite with Bethel people, was one of the most pleasing features of the program.

"The Brilliant Bird" by Calve, the French prima donna, was very beautiful and the Toreador by Gogor, the husband of Emma Eames, one of Maine's prima donnas, who rivals France in the beauty of his baritone voice was a taking selection.

The next number, Sitting for Her Portrait, Miss Pratt, Mr. Wright, was very cleverly executed, and a most fascinating scene.

The gay selections by Miss Weed were equally as well taken as the two grave, and called forth many a merriment and smile from the audience.

Schubert's "Serenade" and "All Through the Night" by Evan Williams, who was a visitor in Bethel a few years ago, was of much interest and pleasure.

The evening's program closed with a selection by the famous quartette from Biglietto, that Schenck might be heard as well as Canoso, Scotti and Giovanni.

The evening service of the day was Monday evening. The church was filled to overflowing as other church services were closed. The musical numbers were unusually good. The double quartet and the Pioneer chorus gave several selections in a few minutes.

The historical address containing as much of town interest was listened to attentively.

Rev. Charles D. Crane of Saylesville, R. I., delivered the anniversary address. This was very interesting and instructive.

After this address came the cantorial poem written by Mrs. Agnes Morton as follows:

Recently, thoughtfully, we've met here today,
Earnestly endeavoring a tribute to pay
To the church, which, as the records show,
Was dedicated one hundred years ago.

One hundred years ago a long, long time,
Especially to youth when in its prime,
Not to others who've somewhat older grown,
The years by scores have quickly flown.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING AT GARLAND CHAPEL.

PROGRESSIVE RALLY.

Hon. Enoch Foster and Hon. H. P. Gardner, Odeon Hall, This Evening.

A Progressive rally will be held in Bethel this Thursday evening at 8.00 o'clock. The speakers will be Hon. Enoch Foster and Hon. H. P. Gardner. Judge Foster needs no introduction in Oxford County and the announcement that he is to speak inspires a filled hall. Mr. Gardner, the Maine member of the National Progressive committee, is an able speaker, a live wire and will be listened to with interest.

And this isn't all. If these two speakers fail to attract a hall full, certainly the enthusiastic Jang Adams chorus, made up of 40 or more of Bethel's sweet singers will do the job. Bethel ladies are noted for doing things and whatever they get after goes. The selections which they will sing will be appropriate to the occasion and the campaign brass band will be simply out of it.

Neither in this all. The men are not just content to let the ladies carry off all the honors so they are asking for a finger in the pie and have been given the privilege of having a street parade and a real torch light procession, a drum corps of real red blood Progressives from Rumford, red lights, red handanna handkerchiefs, and anything else with which to paint the town red.

Come out and join us gentlemen. We won't extend any invitation to the ladies because there are none left to invite, they're all coming, but every man who wants to join the procession is cordially invited to come to Odeon Hall at 7.00 P. M., where he will be supplied with the necessary paraphernalia. Now, on the quiet, fellows, let's not let the ladies get the better of us this time.

LECTURE BY PROF. G. N. CROSS.

Wednesday evening Oct. 23, Prof. George N. Cross, A. M., gave the second and last illustrated lecture of the series to an appreciative audience in Academy Hall, Bethel. The subject of the first one was Paris, a World Capital, and the last, Abraham Lincoln, the First American.

Each lecture was well attended and instructive. The last one was perhaps employed as much at least as any of the lectures that Prof. Cross has given here, which is saying much, as he is an exceedingly interesting and instructive speaker, and the illustrations which he throws upon the screen are of the highest order. He will always be received with pleasure by Bethel people.

BETHEL LIBRARY.

Ed. Lyon and F. L. Edwards after nine o'clock Monday evening set out deer hunting in their auto, by moonlight, and by 11:30 returned with one out of the three they saw. The deer were in a group together and seemed fascinated by the lights of the auto so it was unnecessary to leave the car for the shooting.

NORTH WATERFORD.

The church conference will be held Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 30 and 31st.

Sidney Hatch shot a deer recently. Glyndon Sawin, Winfield McAllister, Ralph Knight and Philip Lord are trapping muskrats by the river.

Mrs. W. E. Rice has gone to New York and her aunt, Charlotte Butters is keeping house for her.

Edith Knight is home on a short vacation.

Robt Andrews is with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sommer Grover.

John Willis is making a short stop at home.

Robert Kimball has bought nearly all the apples in this vicinity, paying $1.50 per barrel for the same.

Dexter Flint, who has been stopping with his nephew, Arthur Bannister, has gone to another nephew's, Chester Flint's at Norway Lake.

After his term as vice president had expired Hon. Hannibal Hamlin was appointed minister to Spain. He and Mrs. Hamlin took up their residence in the Spanish capital. On one of her shopping excursions she found an ancient cabinet, certified to be 400 years old, that she was able to secure. The cabinet is of solid wood, the doors hung with iron hinges, much like those on barn doors. On the return to Bangor she had the cabinet polished up, the hinges gilded, making a handsome piece of furniture. Mr. Hamlin made some investigation of the condition of labor when that cabinet was made. He said he was satisfied that the skilled workmen who worked on it received 4 cents a day and the common laborer got 4 cents per day.

Patience in the Home.

First of all, peace should be practiced at home. There we must not take offense at the least word or look of anger. Put those with the things you cannot remember.

Mrs. Stella Bartlett of Haverhill, Mass., visited her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Hastings, and other friends at home last week, returning home Monday.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Pleasant Reveries—A Column
Dedicated to Tired Mothers
as they Join the Home
Circle at Evening Tide.

I am happy to-day and my whole
heart sings,
The world is so full of such beautiful things!

Work and friendship and beauty and
love,
Nature below and God above.

Four things a man must learn to do
if he would make his record true;
To think without confusion clearly;
To love his fellowmen sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in God and heaven securely.

It certainly makes a difference in your backache when people are kind and when they are not.—Kate L.
Baker: Mary Cary.

Some of your hurts you have cured,
And the sharpest you still have survived;
But what torments of grief you endured.

From evils that never arrived!
—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The noblest person you can find,
Go wherever you will;
Is he who, tortured by a wrong,
Has suffered and is still.

A cheerful word will smooth a frown,
A blithe word stop a tear;
A laugh may go resounding down
The dull aisles of a year.

I've made a practice to put all my worries down in the bottom of my heart, then set on the lid and smile.
—Alice Hegon Rice.

Is there anything that pleases you more than to be trusted—to have even
a little child look up into your face,
and put out its hand to meet yours,
and come to you confidingly? By so much as God is better than you are,
by so much more does he love to be trusted. . . . There is a hand stretched out to you—a hand with a wound in the palm of it. Reach out the band of your faith to clasp it,
and cling to it, for without faith it is impossible to please God.

—Henry Van Dyke.

MOTHERS AND "OVERDOING."
Many sermons have been preached, emotionally and in fiction, about the selfish girl who plays the piano in the parlor while her mother washes dishes in the kitchen. No doubt she needs a good "talking-to" as often as she gets it, perhaps often; yet any one may ask question whether such a girl
makes her mother more uncomfortable than the girl who goes to the other extreme, and is always alert to see that
"mother doesn't overdo."

Every family has its own opinion as to what things mother must avoid.
Most often the dangerous things for her to do are the household tasks
that she has performed all her life.

Working in bed, because it exposes
her to changes of temperature; ironing
her in an overheated room;
stamping is hard on her back; sewing strains her eyes. And so, one after another, the occupations that have made her life are taken from her, and she is asked to sit with folded hands and look on.

She may be fond of walking; yet
when she was seventy on her last birthday, son or daughter insists on giving a carriage for her when she wants to make a few calls. As for her going out in a snow storm, that is quite absurd; mother must be feeling her mind to think of such a thing.

The old seem to be showing signs of general incompetence, for only yesterday
my daughter came home unexpectedly and found her on the top of a step and nearly four feet high taking down the lace curtains to go over, and then fell, just because daughter had been away for a day or two, mother lost the advantage of her absence and put herself in a state of peril.

Her mother! And poor father, too, to make household! Are not the faces still their own, even though they are over seventy? (I don't know,
indeed, to be double their own,
because of their age, but then do the things they want to do. When you ask them of their accustomed duties, you drive home to them
the old consciousness that they have passed their prime. Freedom is the last preservation in the world. Let them have it.

CHARACTER.
Character is the quality that keeps a man always himself. It stands nearest to that innermost part of us that we call "myself"; sometimes it is so hard to distinguish the two.

But I like to keep Character in my body-guard. Character stands firm under every trial, if we give it the chance to do so. It says to all the enemies—temptation, discouragement, bad luck, the blues, and hosts of others—"You may defeat the rest of the army, but you dare not come near the general." Character is the quality that always reminds me that I am myself. It stands just next to myself and goes on repeating, "Be yourself!
Don't forget who you are; don't act
below yourself." Wherever it begins, Character is the first in our bodyguard. He will never desert. A boy or girl who has character, who keeps character strong and alive, can never truly be defeated.—St. Nicholas.

DEATH IN THE "MOVIES."
A four-year-old boy in Auburn, N. Y., a few weeks ago picked up a revolver which he found lying on a mantelpiece, and fired a bullet into the brain of his two-year-old brother, killing him instantly.

"I saw them doing it in the moving pictures," he said, "and I wanted to."

It is time that parents realized the dangers of the "movies." That danger is in many cases very powerful and quite unwatched.

A new education has quietly risen among us. In some respects it is more influential than the education of the public school, the Sunday school,
the home, and even the street.

It has all the fascination of the theatre, and is far more irresponsible.
We have not learned to set up safeguards against its perils.

The moving picture has been appreciated by the children. It costs less than the theatre. It has been hailed as an "educational adjunct." Parents consider it respectable. Often it is merely an incentive to crime and lust.

It has, of course, tremendous powers for good. That it may not go the way of the theatre, it behooves
all parents to know what sort of moving picture shows their children are attending, and keep them strictly away from all that are of even slightly doubtful tendencies. Let them not play with fire.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.
One of the most startling changes
ever seen in any man, according to W.
B. Holshaw, Clarendon, Texas, was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, that all of our family thought that he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's New Discovey, and was completely cured by two bottles. Now he is sound and well and weighs 218 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for coughs and colds with excellent results. Its quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 75 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle at nald, Nathan Reynolds of Canton; H.

THE CHILD'S TOYS.
(Looked under a pretense of making the children happy, our sins have been many. In the first place, we have been giving them too many toys and have made the recipients fussy and ungrateful. One at a time is enough. In our secret souls most of us have been conscious of this mistake. In the second place, in our desire to produce something new and wonderful at frequent intervals, something that would do us credit in the eyes of our young admirers, we have been getting the wrong kinds. The imported mechanical toys upon which we have fallen with gusto and placed happily on selves until obliged to hand them over to our better for us it seems, than for them. They do the work for the child instead of making him do it.

Here we have in a nutshell the main
principal mistake of the selection of toys.
The child's two chief aims—imitation,
and the desire to make his toys do
the things he imagines he can do.

UNCONSCIOUS HUMOR.
Our school-children need no compares. Many enough things come into the shape of letters from the parents of their pupils, no witness of the things revealed by a teacher in a moment. "Unconscious Master" comes within for slanders. He will have state and we feed his internal feelings was hurt at first, but now isn't. The doctor says that no part of his anatomy was hurt but the sensitivity of the epiglottis of the mouth. He and also his right hand were hurt. He is narrowly escaped fatal death. So kindly excuse.

William D. Howells says that he once argued with his wife about the proper use of a certain word. "To eat the matter, I took the dictionary
and looked it up. 'Ah,' I said,
'here it is, with just the usage I employed,' and I read the justifying quotation about 'Who wrote that?'"
He looked to know. Again I quoted the printed page. "Why, it says
'Howells.'" "Oh," answered my wife, with triumphant words, "he's no authority!"

only gave relief for a while, nothing
cured, writes Mrs.

had been troubling
him worse than ever.
At last on Friday I told him if he would not take those tablets
I was going to send for he would take them. By Monday he was like another man. The blues were gone, no more trouble with his stomach, and the best part is that the trouble has not returned. I cannot praise Chamber-

RUMFORD.

Miss Leha Felt left Thursday for Connecticut and New York to be the guest of friends and relatives for a week.

Leslie Foster of Portland was the guest of his uncle, N. G. Foster, for a few days last week.

Ruth Ostrom, the little daughter of Mr. Harry Ostrom, is ill of scarlet fever at her home on Rumford Ave. Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Griffin, Mr. Jas. Harris and Mrs. Robert Harris attended the Teachers' Convention in Portland, Thursday and Friday of last week.

S. J. Gonyea and L. W. Blanchard attended the meeting of the State Progressive Committee at Portland and report that it was the most enthusiastic meeting they ever attended.

The Rumford teachers left Thursday to be present at the convention held in Portland and returned Saturday. Monday the scholars attended school in the morning to produce their vaccination certificates, but the schools are closed until the small pox scare is entirely over.

V. A. Blinford has been the guest of John Reed and family for the past week.

A large black bear weighing three hundred and fifty pounds was brought into town by Wm. Holt this week and hung before the store of F. O. Walker. Mr. Holt said that he killed it a short distance from his camp at Indian Rock Manor, and also said that the hunting was excellent in his section, several deer having been killed and some other small game besides.

Wellace Moore was given a surprise party at his home on Rumford Ave. Wednesday evening, the party being given by his friends to celebrate his birthday. Quite a large number of friends appeared at the home of Mr. Moore about eight o'clock and he was thoroughly surprised, although he was as always equal to the occasion. Eight tables of the party played whist during the evening and at the close it was found that Harry Foster had won the first prize and Jas. D. Clark the booty. Each prize was a pack of cards. Mr. Moore was presented with a beautiful merrymaking pipe by his friends. Mrs. Moore served refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee, and the party broke up at a late hour wishing Mr. Moore many happy returns of the day.

A unique wager has been made between Nathan Israelson and Geo. Schwabe in regard to a mammoth peanut which has been found. The wager is that the man whose party is defeated at the coming election shall roll this peanut the entire length of Congress street. Mr. Israelson is a Progressive and Mr. Schwabe is a Democrat. The peanut is on exhibition at the Progressive headquarters.

The Democrats held a steamed clam feed at their headquarters Thursday evening.

All the churches, schools, picture theatres and every public meeting of every kind are closed until further notice of the board of health. At present there are four cases of small pox in Rumford and some over thirty in Mexico.

Mrs. Frazier Bernard was arrested Thursday afternoon on a charge of drunkenness. Mrs. Bernard when sober is an excellent housekeeper and peaceable woman, but when she becomes intoxicated her disposition is most quarrelsome. She has four children from the ages of three to seventeen years. Upon being arraigned in court Mrs. Bernard was sentenced to thirty days in jail. This is her fifth or sixth offense. Deputy Small committed her to jail Friday.

L. F. Lovejoy is able to be around again after an illness of rheumatism and has resumed his duties in the store of J. E. Stephens.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lovejoy were given a surprise party at their home on Franklin street Wednesday evening to celebrate their twenty-fifth anniversary. About twelve friends were present and presented Mrs. Lovejoy with a handsome silver candelabra. A Polish man was in court Saturday morning for breaking quarantine on River street, where scarlet fever was the contagious disease. The man was fined six dollars. The board of health are doing everything that they can to rigorously enforce the quarantine law and so stamp out these contagious diseases that seem to have got a strong foothold especially among the foreign population of the town of Mexico and Rumford.

Mr. F. C. Lee and wife were at Norway, Sunday to conduct services in that town.

WHY WOMEN SUFFER

Many Rumford Falls Women are Learning the Cause.

Women often suffer, not knowing the cause. Backache, headache, dizziness, nervousness.

Irregular urinary passages, weakness, languor—

Each a torture of itself. Together hint at weakened kidneys. Strike at the root—get to the cause. Quickly help the kidneys if they need it.

No other remedy more highly endorsed than Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here's convincing testimony from this locality. Mrs. Georgia Thayer, Pleasant St., South Paris, Me., says: "The public statement I made several years ago regarding Doan's Kidney Pills was entirely correct. I am glad to confirm it. This remedy helped me when I was suffering from kidney trouble. I advise other people who have kidney complaint to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

BEAUTY 500 YEARS AGO.

They have dug up an old beauty book in Italy, published 500 years ago, which laid down the following rules of the game:

"To be beautiful," says the work, "the women must have the following three white things: Skin, hands and teeth. Three black things: Eyes, eye-lashes and eyebrows. Three pink things: Lips, gums and nails. Three short things: Teeth, ears and tongue. Three wide things: Forehead, shoulders and intelligence. Three narrow things: Waist, mouth and ankle. Three delicate things: Fingers, lips and mind. Three round things: Arm, leg and dower."

Things haven't changed so much in five centuries have they? Or let us say, that woman's beauty is immortal and immutable.—Allan Times-Union.

L. F. MEDICINE Used by Three Generations

In thousands of families all through the cities and towns of the State. Though the science of medicine in aiding nature to bring about cures is sometimes said to be an experiment, "L. F." Atwood's Medicine is a relief for constipation, indigestion, active liver and other similar troubles, is so sure and the results so beneficial that it has become a standard remedy for restoring health throughout New England.

Read what M. J. Lothrop says:—"I think your 'L. F.' Atwood's Medicine the best for Dyspepsia of anything I ever used. My mother took it 40 years ago; my father uses it all the time and would not think of getting along without it. I use it in my family."

M. J. Lothrop, Negob, Me. Large bottle 35 cents at all stores. "L. F." MEDICINE CO., Portland, Maine.

STATE OF MAINE, COUNTY OF OXFORD, SS.

Pursuant to a complaint, sworn out before me, Albert Bennett, a Trial Justice in and for said county, by H. H. Hastings, Elvira A. Hall, and Emma W. Chandler, all residents of Bethel in said county, that Lettie Mullen of said Bethel, adopted child of James Mullen of said Bethel, of the age of thirteen years, is wilfully neglected and is abandoned by said James Mullen. Notice is hereby ordered to be given to said James Mullen, by publishing an attested copy of this order in the Oxford County Citizen two weeks successively, that a hearing upon said complaint will be held at the Court room in Bethel village, on Saturday, November 9, 1912, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Dated at Bethel, Me., Oct. 30, 1912. ALBERT BENNETT, Trial Justice.

A true copy—attest FRED F. BEAN, Deputy Sheriff. 1912-31.

LOCAL HISTORY.

the farm of John York without details—the farm at this date not having been found upon the earth by the compiler, only upon the record sheets, and such evidence is not always correct. Recently in company with my Bethel friend of long standing—Mr. Algernon Sidney Chapman, a relative of the fifth degree (I guess) in relationship, we rode through what seems to be the John York neighborhood of the olden time, interviewing several of the denizens we met who looked upon us with amusement while relating the object of the search—namely the location of the John York farm—upon which once stood a "Fort" connected with which were barracks for the soldiery, where the tambour accompanied by the command—"Fall into line, eyes front, forward-march, quick time, halt, arms at will, rest!" was heard.

One said—"I am a subscriber to the Citizen and read the historical department with much interest and profit, but never heard before the story you tell." We lunched upon the contents of our basket and baited our steed at a deserted farm house, crossed the Androscoggin at the Hanover ferrying place and back to the Hill upon the northerly side of the river, a charming drive, through a panoramic landscape indescribable view, to be understood must be seen, making flying stops at the burying places along the way; a description of half we saw and learned would fill a page in the Citizen, seasoned with items of "fresh news" the local collector had failed to utilize. In the cemetery enclosure located between Sunday and Bear rivers upon the northerly side of the highway passing it, we found the grave memorial of "Col. John York" minus dates and that of Peter York, his son, who succeeded his father in possession of the Col. John York homestead, their wives and others of the York name—six, the inscriptions it is proposed to present later.

Perhaps what I have written if printed in the Citizen will stimulate some one with a desire to obey the injunction "Know thyself" to hunt out and expose the bounds to public view the Col. John York homestead which seems to have been by the records outside of lot No. 13; and thus establish the lost location of the "Fort" erected upon the Col. John York farm."

To drink of the water of the brook from which the soldiers drank and to "view the landscape o'er" would indeed be historically educational and repay a school picnic for the time spent in making a visit to the locality after the site of the farm and "Fort" has been discovered.

The gravestone memorial is the only record outside of family tradition I have thus far found to John York's military title excepting the reference on page eighty-five of the history of Bethel that of Col. John York's Revolutionary war record and the names of eleven other persons presented with the "nothing definite is known." In this particular I have made no effort to learn the facts. A real Colonel must have had a command. Among the eleven names of persons of whom Dr. Lapham had learned "nothing definite" I will here present only one record near at hand, namely:

"Died at Bethel, the 5th Inst, 1838, James Sprague, a soldier of the Revolution, aged ninety-two years."

Before me is a record of a land title dated 1803 upon which appears the name of John York as a witness, written in a neat and bold manner; also Peter York's to another business transaction of 1823, in Bethel, appearing in nearly as good style as that of John's.

To give a correct view of military matters in Bethel, even on the Hill, much needs to be said particularly of the two story "Gun house" now used for peaceful purposes though removed from its original location. Hereafter in referring to John York I will use the prefix title of Colonel believing the same is legitimately entitled to it.

The grave of Barbara Fitchie in Frederick, Md. has been marked only by a simple headstone, but a servant is now on foot to raise $10,000 in order that her grave may be marked by a proper monument, as is the grave of Francis Scott Key near by.
